

PEAR BLIGHT DESTRUCTIVE

Disease Peculiar to the Pomaceous Fruits of America

ATTACKS LIMBS OR BLOSSOMS

Blight Usually Attacks Especial Attention During the Early Spring, Shortly After the Blooming Period—Sanitary Precautions Necessary.

(J. H. Carmody, Horticultural Department, Kentucky Experiment Station.)

Pear blight is a disease peculiar to the pomaceous fruits of America. It is most destructive to the pear, quince, and apple. In some instances it has been known to attack the plum. Cultivated plants are more liable to attack although mountain ash and wild species of the apple often serve as host plants.

The disease may attack the limbs, blossoms, or the fruit of the tree. In advanced cases all three may be diseased at the same time. However, it is generally noticed on the young succulent twig growth, hence the origin of the term "twig blight." Other names oftentimes applied are fire blight, canker, blossom blight and several others.

Blight usually attracts especial attention early in the spring shortly after the blooming period. It is first noticed when the leaf growth on the tips of the younger branches begins to turn brown and later on this is followed by blackened tufts of leaves all over the tree. If left unmolested the whole limb and even the trunk of the tree may become infected. An infallible guide for determining if a tree is affected with blight is to notice whether or not the leaves remain during the winter. No other disease of the pomaceous fruits is characterized by the leaves clinging to the branches during the dormant season.

Fire blight is a bacterial disease. The bacteria remain alive during the winter in cankers on the trunks and limbs of trees previously affected. As soon as the weather begins to warm these organisms become active on the cankers at all times, especially during the growing season, and remove all diseased branches as soon as they are noticed. Also inspect the orchard during the winter and early spring for the cankers and remove them before the bacteria they contain becomes active. In order to hinder the disease from getting down on the trunk and main limbs it is a good plan to rub off all the blossoms, fruit spurs, and water sprouts from the larger branches, as they start. This will be a great aid in the prevention of body cankers.

Earth's Oldest and Greatest Building
There is a natural veneration in the mind of mankind for grand old things. If one were to locate the exact geographical center of this land surface of the whole earth, he would find, situated upon a high cliff, and thus occupying the most commanding position of any structure in the world, the oldest and greatest building ever erected. It is the most enduring form of structure ever devised, is built entirely of solid limestone and granite blocks, covers more than thirteen acres of ground, and is nearly five hundred feet high, and is said to have required the labor of over 100,000 men for at least twenty years.

Originally this wonderful building was covered with massive limestone blocks, all highly polished and fitted together so accurately that in some instances the thickness of the joints between the stones is not more than one five-hundredth of an inch. The entire fifteen acres of its exterior was thus finely encased, and to the beholder a short distance away, it must have looked like one huge white crystal, from whose polished sides the brilliant rays of the Egyptian sunlight were reflected in dazzling splendor.

Through the solid masonry and the foundation rock of this mighty structure there extended an intricate system of long narrow passageways, and magnificent chambers, together with a most superb gallery called "The Grand Gallery," whose walls are composed of seven overlapping courses of highly polished masonry. This gallery is said to be the most awe-inspiring of any in the world.

"Upside-Down" Flyer Turns Plane on Side in Midair.

Versailles.—The French aviator, Pegoud, who recently made an upside-down flight at Juvisy and repeated the performance at Buc, accomplished another daring feat in his self-imposed task of proving the stability of the aeroplane.

After mounting to a great height, Pegoud dipped the left wing and his machine slowly turned over on its side. The aviator flew for some seconds head down. He then gained the upright position by gracefully looping the loop.

Pegoud's hazardous flight was watched with breathless interest by a great crowd.

A Cool-headed Engineer

The engineer of a Chicago suburban train showed the other day that a cool and experienced head is equal to almost any emergency. A side rod had broken and with every revolution of the wheels was demolishing the cab and the mechanism by which the engine is operated. He was able to shut off the power, but the airbrake control had been destroyed, and the train went dashing on. Having done all that mortal could do with the apparatus that was left intact, he left the cab, climbed over the coal in the tender and swung down on the platform of the first car. There, reaching for the air cord, he brought the train to a stop in a few hundred feet. If he had whistled for brakes the train crew might not have responded in as little time as it took him to do the thing himself.

The tragedy of life is indecision. They bury suicides at the crossroads for that is where lurks all tragedy—the indecision of which way to choose.

ANNUAL MEETING OF W. C. T. U.

Workers Convene Here This Morning—Many Noted Speakers

PROGRAM NOT READY FOR PUBLICATION, BUT SYNOPSIS GIVEN OUTLIVING WORK FOR THIS MEETING

The annual State Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union convenes in this city this morning for a three-day session, and while the program for the meeting is not ready for the press, local members of the organization assure the public that the meeting will be one of the most interesting and successful ones ever held.

Delegates began arriving yesterday and today. Each train is expected to bring visitors from many sections of the state, who will be entertained during their stay, in the homes of the citizens of the city.

The following prent notices regarding the meeting is furnished The Hustler by the local W. C. T. U. members, which will give a splendid idea of the excellent meetings to be held during the convention.

Synopsis of Program

Owing to an unavoidable delay in getting out the convention program, we will give an outline of the first part as we understand it.

Friday evening will be taken for addresses of welcome music and the president's annual address. Saturday at 9:00 a. m., the convention will be open for business. Dinner and supper will be served in the basement of the church for delegates by the ladies of the Christian church.

Saturday evening the report of our mountain school will be given by the committee in church, Miss May Stone, a graduate of Wellesley College, and Miss Huntington, a woman of means from the east, who found our W. C. T. U. school in the darkest corner of the state, an ideal place for her services which she is giving free to the children of the benighted counties of our state.

Sunday morning each delegate will attend the church of her choice.

Sunday afternoon and evening mass meetings will be held at the Garrick Theatre, addressed by Daniel A. Poling.

Monday the business of the convention will be resumed.

The ladies of the Baptist and Presbyterian churches will serve the noon lunch and supper. Tuesday the Methodist women will be in charge of the meals.

The convention closes Tuesday night.

Home Burnt

The home of Logan Hall, who lives near Onton, was destroyed by fire a few days ago. No one was at home at the time, and it is not known how it caught. The loss was $1,200 with a $600 insurance. He will commence at once to rebuild.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Laid to Rest

All that was mortal of Dave A. Barnett will be laid to rest tomorrow he was known to his large number of friends, and who was loved for his many manly traits of character, and when he was a friend he was one that stayed to the last. He was for several years an employee of the Transportation Department of the L. & N. and was one of their most trusted and well liked men. His fellow-workmen were to a man his friends and the expressions of his untimely end were with much feeling and love. No one ever heard, or would he allow anyone in his presence, to make an unkind remark about any woman, no matter who, or what she was. His devotion to his mother was another of his fine traits and he tried to be everything that a dutiful son should be, and his friends often spoke of his love for her. To his parents and brothers and many relatives, the Bee extends its heart felt sympathy.

DISEASES OF WHEAT CROP

Wheat Smuts, Rust and Hessian Fly Common Troubles of Kentucky Farmer

REMEDY FOR THE DISEASES

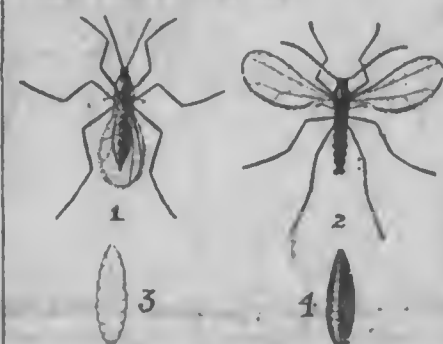

Seldom That a Crop of Wheat is Matured Without Being Affected to Some Extent By the Attacks to Which the Wheat Crop is Subject

(Ralph Kenney, Department of Agronomy, Kentucky Experiment Station.)

It is very seldom that a crop of wheat is matured without being affected to some extent by some of the common diseases to which the crop is subject, as smut, rust and smut.

Scab is a fungus disease which attacks the glumes or chaff of the wheat plant and results in shrunken kernels. The disease is identified by the pinkish spots produced at the base of glumes attacked.

There is no known treatment for this disease, except that it has been recommended that the stubble be burned if wheat is to follow a crop of wheat affected with scab.

Hessian Fly—1. Adult Female; 2. Adult Male; 3. Larva Before "Flaxseed;" 4. "Flaxseed" Stage.

The smuts are of two distinct kinds, viz: loose smut and stinking smut. The loss from loose smut does not vary so widely from year to year as does that from stinking smut, which may be very great one year and possibly negligible the following season. The smuts can be so easily and cheaply controlled that their presence in a field of wheat is a sure indication of carelessness on the part of the owner.

For loose smut of wheat, Formalin is not effective and the following treatment known as the modified hot water treatment is the more certain preventive.

Soak the seed wheat in cold water for a period of four hours and follow by immersing in hot water at a temperature of 29 degrees Fah. for 10 minutes. Thorough drying after this treatment is not injurious to germination. However, the treatment is apt to be slightly injurious and allowance for this must be made by sowing a slightly greater quantity of seed per acre. It is not advisable to treat all the seed sown in this manner. Treat only enough for the seed plot of an acre or so, and sow the main field from the product of this plot the following year.

Stinking smut or "hant" of wheat may be prevented by either a hot water treatment, by Formalin or by the use of Bluestone.

1. Formalin Treatment:

(a) Dipping.—Procure from a druggist formalin which he guarantees to be a full 40 per cent solution of formaldehyde. Pour one pint of this into a fifty gallon barrel of water and stir thoroughly. Put the wheat to be treated into coarse burlap sacks, about one-half bushel to a sack. Dip into the solution and keep there for about ten minutes or until thoroughly wet; drain off into the barrel and set aside for five to ten hours. Then empty out, spread in a thin layer and dry sufficiently to sow, or thoroughly dry and store in a perfectly cleaned place. If sown while damp allow a greater bulk of wheat to make up for the swollen grain.

(b) Sprinkling. Put the wheat to be treated on a clean floor or canvas and with a sprinkling can sprinkle the solution over the wheat shoveling over constantly until the grain is all wet. Shovel into a pile and cover with wet sacks or a good canvas and leave five to ten hours, when it should be treated as in the case of dipped wheat.

2. Bluestone Treatment.

Dissolve five pounds of Bluestone in 25 to 30 gallons of water and dip or sprinkle the wheat as in the case of the formalin treatment, but drain off well and partially dry at once so the solution will not soak into the grain. Probably the most serious of the insect pests affecting the wheat plant is the Hessian Fly.

A slight infestation this year 1913...

neighborhood, the best means of keeping it in check is late sowing by all the farmers of that particular neighborhood. Wheat should not be sown before the fifth to the tenth of October in such cases, and if sown this late the early frosts usually prevent serious infestation by the fly.

This late sowing demands that the land be in splendid condition for quick growth of the wheat, and the extra time can profitably be spent in a more thorough working of the seed bed. In this way the bad effects of late sowing may be largely overcome.

IF HEADACHY, DIZZY, BILIOUS, "CASCARETS"

Your Liver is full of Bile, Bowels Clogged, Stomach Sour, Tongue Coated, Breath Bad

Get a 10-cent box now. You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

Many Attend The Opening

Quite a large number of our ladies attended the opening of the Fall Millinery stock of Miss Georgie Bishop, Mrs. F. N. Fugate, Metcalfe & Emerson, Dolin, McLeod, Grand Leader. Never was there such a display of goods seen in Madisonville, and there were shown goods that equal any city in the state, the windows of the merchants were beautiful and showed much taste and talent. Madisonville comes up to any town of twice its size in the way of stores and ready to wear ladies goods. There can be gotten in the stores of Madisonville, anything that can be found in Evansville or Louisville and the trade was far above the average. Beautiful souvenirs were given away to all the visitors Thursday.

and multiply very rapidly, gradually spreading all the while into healthy bark and wood tissue. Often during damp, warm weather these cankered areas or holdovers as they are called break open and exude a sweet, sticky substance that carries with it the bacteria which are attracted by this exudate and become smeared by it. Later on they visit the flowers of the tree thus carrying the dangerous organisms where they will do the most harm. In a short time the blossoms begin to show signs of blight and later on affected twigs will also be noticed.

Since the organism causing pear blight works within the host it is very evident that an external application of a fungicide or an insecticide would be effectual. The commercial preparations that are introduced into the sap have not proven effectual as yet. In fact harm has often resulted from their use because the injury made by the insect often serves as a means of entrance for the harmful bacteria.

When so many grateful citizens of this locality testify to benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, can you doubt the evidence? The proof is not far away—it is almost at your door. Read what a resident of Nortonville says about Doan's Kidney Pills. Can you demand more convincing testimony?

T. J. Pool, Nortonville, Ky., says: "I had kidney trouble for about ten years. My back ached at night and I was lame in the morning. I tired easily, was nervous and had headaches and dizzy spells. My sight was affected. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and continued wellment. Colds always settled on my kidneys. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and a few doses relieved me. They have given me more relief than any other remedy I have ever tried."

I was down sick with womanly trouble, and my mother advised several different treatments, but they didn't seem to do me any good. I lingered along for three or four months, and for three weeks, I was in bed, so sick I couldn't bear for any one to walk across the floor.

My husband advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I have taken two bottles of Cardui, am feeling fine, gained 15 pounds and do all of my housework. Friends hardly know me, I am so well."

If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, don't allow the trouble to become chronic. Begin taking Cardui to-day. It is purely vegetable, its ingredients acting in a gentle, natural way on the weakened womanly constitution. You run no risk in trying Cardui. It has been helping weak women back to health and strength for more than 50 years. It will help you. At all dealers.
